"ND 2490 6709. Mound."(1) "Broch(supposed), Ha' of Greenland: This artificial mound is much reduced by ploughing. There is no definite indication of its character, but it probably covers the remains of a broch. Listed as an uncertain example of a broch."(2)(3)

"There are now no definite traces of this feature except for a slight rise in the ground. The only information which could be obtained locally is that the field in which it lies is known as 'Black Cairnfield'."(OSFI:RD:17.2.1965)

"ND 2490 6709. Mound."(4) "All that is to be seen at this site is an E-facing field is an isolated rise on a change of slope. It measures approx. 45.0m in diameter by 1.0m high, and is ploughed over with the rest of the field. The vegetation cover on the rise is indistinguishable from the surrounding land."(OSFI:JM:27.4.1982)

"ND 245 675. Ha' of Greenland"(5)(Text of (M12))

6. " * Also known as 'Black Cairnfield."
